Vol. XLII OMAHA UNIVERSITY
OMAHA, NEBRASKA, FRIDAY, APRIL 5, 1963 No. 24

Editorial Comment . . .

Apathy Disheartening As Election Nears

By MARY BETH MEYERS

The apathy at this University is sometimes very disheartening to those vitally concerned with any OU project.

I am not directing these comments just to the students—the faculty is also at fault. A friend of mine said that a member of the OU staff was visiting her parents and the conversation turned to the upcoming mill-levy election.

This staff person said that she was violently opposed to the election. She said that the student should have to pay his own way to the University of Omaha just as her daughter did at a well-known private school.

I recognize that in the United States we have a right to voice our opinion, but I wonder if this woman really knows what the mill increase could mean to her.

Support, Why?

Only two of my professors have talked about the election. Only two have given the student any real reasons to support the University.

WHY?

I should think that since this increase in the mill levy would undoubtedly mean more money and a lighter load for the faculty that this would be an incentive to get the faculty behind it. But obviously it isn't.

And the students—what do you care if this election goes our way?

You should care.

These are my reasons for caring:

1. I am proud to tell people that I go to OU. I want to see it grow and continue to grow with the city. I didn't want to come to OU when I graduated from high school. I was going to go to St. Louis University, but after I looked at board and room fees I knew that would be impossible. Now, I couldn't be more satisfied with the education I'm getting.

2. I can't afford to pay three dollars an hour more in tuition than I'm paying now anymore than I could afford to go to St. Louis U.

3. My brothers will be coming to OU—one next fall, the other in four years. I want them to have the same educational opportunities as I have had.

4. One of the basic psychological drives of man is prestige. New buildings, additional facilities and additional faculty will boost the University's prestige. Each student and alumni will benefit from this recognition merely by association.

5. The caliber of the faculty would be improved if there were more money to pay qualified instructors.

Doesn't Know

What does "Mr. Omaha Citizen" think of OU and its plea for additional funds? Unfortunately, the University doesn't know exactly. I hope that 51 per cent of the voters like us on April 23, but who knows now?

Why should the city support our election? The majority of the voters probably won't be sending their children here. If this is true then why vote for OU?

1. It is a fact that some 30,000 people from the city of Omaha use the University in one year. The people benefit from the contact they have had with the University.

2. There are over 8,000 students presently enrolled in credit courses. Day school enrollment is around 4,000. In the course of a year each of these students spends at least $1,800. This amounts to about $720,000 spent in Omaha because the students are here instead of away at school.

3. Statistics show that a college graduate makes more money in his lifetime than a high school or grade school graduate. Therefore, the college graduate adds more to the economy of his community.

4. OU graduates are in every field of education, business and industry in Omaha. The majority of the elementary and secondary teachers in the Omaha Public Schools have OU degrees.

5. Further statistics show that a city with a high standard of education is a better place to live.

Omaha University has an excellent faculty and top-notch students.

We all need the help of the Omaha voters NOW. As students you should be taking every opportunity to inform your friends about your University. This campaign is based on the students. If the student body lets the University down it's all over.

Lee Terry Guest On OU TV Show

A new twist was featured on "Issue '63" Wednesday afternoon.

Lee Terry, news director at television station KETV answered questions about television news in Omaha.

One of the main points Terry brought out is that Omaha television news is as good as you will find anywhere with the exception of New York, City.

There will be no "Issue '63" next week due to spring vacation.

Dr. Paul Miller, superintendent of the Omaha public schools, will be the guest on April 17.

Omaha Mayor James Dworak will be the guest April 24.

Official Notices

Today is the deadline for campus officers to sign up for the Waakiya Leadership Conference, April 18. Officers are asked to pay $2.00 for the day. Reservations and fees should be paid in the Dean of Students Office SC 248.

"Babette Goes to War," starring Bridget Bardot, will be shown at 7:30 p.m., Monday, in the Ballroom of the Student Center.

Friday afternoon dances will resume April 26 in the SC. No dances are scheduled until then because the SC does not have enough help to take care of all the Friday activities.

Professor John D. Miller and the University of Omaha Student Choir will be featured at the annual Easter Convocation to be held April 10 in the Adm. Bldg. Auditorium.

Dean Donald Pflasterer said "all 10:30 classes that day will be dismissed so that students may attend the program."

Seniors Must Apply For Degrees Today

Today is the deadline for students hoping to be graduated in June to apply for degrees in the Registrar's office.

More than 640 applications had been filed Wednesday.

The record commencement was June, 1962, when 551 degrees were awarded.

Upon payment of the $10 fee, students can be measured for caps and gowns in the OU Bookstore.

OU Top Scholars Receive Fellows

Winners of National Defense Awards Will Continue Schooling for Doctorates

Two University of Omaha seniors have been named recipients of the National Education Act Fellowships.

The winners, Bob Hemenway and Sally Poppino, were awarded fellowships that will enable them to continue in their respective fields and attain a doctorate degree.

Hemenway, an English major, plans to attend Kent State in Kent, Ohio. Bob will be graduated in June and will begin his work toward a Ph.D. in English in September. Bob said that his main interest was in the novel and that Kent State's English department impressed him greatly in regard to the novel. Bob's grade average is 3.5.

Miss Poppino is a biology major, plans to attend the University of Texas to attain her doctorate degree in botany.

Among Sally's activities at OU are membership in Alpha Lambda Delta. She is the vice-president of Gamma Pi Sigma (chemistry honorary). Sally is also a member of the Angel's Flight and is a Marching Angel. She is a member of Corinthians and secretary-treasurer of the Biology Club. Sally's grade average is 3.62.

"The National Defense Fellowships are probably the largest grants given to students" said Dean Robert Harper, dean of the College of Liberal Arts. The fellowships are for graduate work and the individual universities are granted the funds for the fellowships by the government, he said.

In applying for the fellowship the students must send a letter to the college or colleges that they would like to attend while working toward their doctorate.

The student may apply to several schools and accept only the fellowship from the university or college of his choice.

Since the grant is one of the largest amounts given to a student, the applicant must meet several standards. Among which are; the student must plan on teaching in one of the nation's universities or colleges after completing graduate work. He must enroll for a full schedule leading to a Ph.D., and he must be a citizen of the United States.

The grant itself consists of $7,000 which is spread over a three year period. The first year the student receives $2,000, the second year $2,200 and the third year $2,400.

Students interested in their mid-semester scholastic reports were advised to contact their counselors.

Mid-Term Scholastic Reports Given to OU Students This Week

Mid-term scholastic reports for all Omaha U students were in the hands of counselors this week.

This was the first time mid-semester grades were compiled and given to the entire student body, Dean Donald Pflasterer said.

Previously only first semester freshmen and students with grades lower than a C were notified at mid-term, he said.

"Some sort of a record was set in compiling the grades," he said.

Instructors marked IBM data processing cards with students' grades, absences and reason for absences, and sent them to the data processing office Tuesday.

Wednesday morning the process was completed and the cards were in the hands of counselors.

University can complete what he wanted.

Head Librarian Ellen Lord spoke via a telephone/loud-speaker hookup from her home. She said that ground-breaking is an American heritage and this was an important step in OU history.

Miss Lord is bedridden with a fractured hip.

Dr. Wilfred Payne, Regents Professor of Philosophy, spoke on behalf of the faculty. Don Maseman, Alumni president, spoke for the Alumni Association.

Student Council President James Leslie spoke for the student body and Dr. Herbert Davis spoke on behalf of the Regents Library Committee.

Free Orchestis Woods Brightens Concert Ahead Distasteful Work

by Sheri Hronek

An entertaining evening is in store for those who attend the Orchestis concert, April 19-20.

The concert of dancing will begin with "Eleven in 74"—a jazz number with plenty of hand clapping and off-beat rhythms.

Next is an unusual sounding (the name, anyway) number—"Anyone, I and the Elephant Child." The name is taken from the titles of three poems by E. E. Cummings. The dance is an interpretation of the three poems.

"Four Seasons" is an interpretation of the four seasons. It is composed of four dances, each with music, props and poems to correspond with the season.

Four Alley Cats

Steve Gidley, Sheri Humphrey, Susie Krogh and Gary Wallace will provide a change of pace with "Alley Antics." In this dance to Leonard Bernstein's "Walk on the Wide Side," the four alley cats perform amidst garbage cans.

An unusual dance will be presented by three people whose legs and arms are connected by elastic tape. "Elastic Strings" provides interesting formations as the three move to stretch the tape.

The entire Orchestis group will appear in "Banchee." The music for this dance will be played through an echo chamber to provide weird sounds.

Citizen No. 47692

The mechanical era we now live in will be satirized in "Citizen No. 47692." In "Sound-Time—Movement" the only accompaniment will be a metronome.

"Written in the Stars" is a dance study on three signs of the Zodiac—Virgo, Cancer and Pisces. A light touch is given to the concert in "Death of the Balloon."

In the traditional closing the entire group will provide the background to the Lord's Prayer. The outstanding senior member, Mary Abersfeller, will dance the solo part.

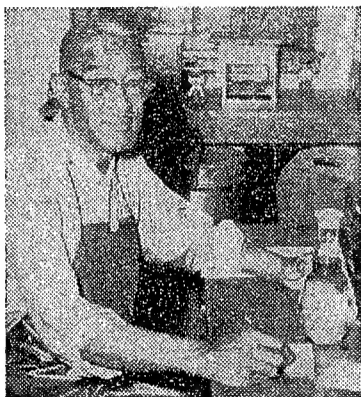

During the intermission the outstanding member will be announced. This person is selected by the group.

The concert is free to students and public so for an enjoyable and variety-filled evening, plan to attend the concert. It will begin at 8 p.m. in the Administration Building auditorium.

Biology students who find dissection work on frogs and worms distasteful usually notice that their days are somewhat brightened by the friendly face of Delmar Woods.

The tall, mustached man who works as a storeroom clerk in the Biology Department has a kindly, comforting smile. The sparkle in his eyes that is magnified by his glasses is a good companion to his quick and hearty laugh.

As a storeroom clerk, Mr. Woods both issues slides and prepares the experiments for biology classes. He has found, as one might expect that it is the females who are the most squeamish about dissection work.

The well-liked clerk has been with Omaha University for a year-and-a-half. Prior to this he worked with the Post Office department. When he applied at the University as a mail clerk, his other qualifications were brought to light, and he was placed with the biology department.

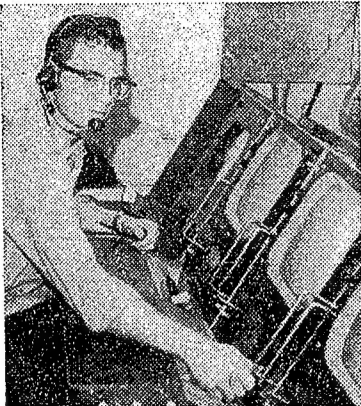

He likes his job quite well. "I like the atmosphere, and the people I work with. They keep me feeling young," he added with a laugh.

Commenting on the durability of the slides he issues for use under the microscopes, Mr. Woods said, "There has been quite a bit of breakage this year, due mostly to mere carelessness. 'However,' he chuckled, 'we have taken steps to curb this.' The 'steps' to which he referred were the dollar fines now being imposed on students who damage the slides.

Joe's Job Is TV Trouble

"I work anyplace they have trouble" stated Joe Horvath, assistant in the radio-TV department.

Joe's job is to maintain and install equipment in the radio and TV department. He has worked two years as a student assistant in the department and as of this week has been made a full-time employee.

His interest in electronics isn't newly founded—he has been repairing equipment since he was in the eighth grade. For almost five years he worked as a serviceman in the business world.

After graduation from South High in 1959, Joe spent a year at the University of Nebraska and then transferred to OU. Although he isn't taking any classes this semester, Joe hopes to gradually get his degree.

His major is physics and after graduation he hopes he can continue at OU. Joe likes the work at OU because he "works with better people." He feels he can get more experience here because he is largely his own boss.

Counselors Guests at Annual Dinner at SC

One-hundred thirty-two counselors from Omaha high schools were guests at a counselors dinner held Tuesday in the Student Center.

Dr. B. G. Olson, assistant professor of education, said the purpose of the dinner was "to keep the high school counselors acquainted with new techniques and to discuss the common goals of university and high school counseling."

Special guest speakers were Major Bernard Lodge of the Salvation Army and Chris Miller of the Omaha Big Brothers Association.

Dear Editor

Certainly the death of a student strikes us as untimely and certainly thought-provoking. Yet one of its more laudable elements is the spirit of sympathetic cooperation that such an event evokes. This has been our campus reaction to the death of a Creighton junior, Bill Silas.

The Student Board of Governors wishes to express appreciation to those who contributed to the fund for the floral spray. We understand that many Omaha University students generously gave and to them we owe much gratitude.

Sincerely,
Bobbi Eckerman

Debaters Journey To Laramie Meet

Five University of Omaha debaters are in Laramie, Wyo., this weekend participating in a cross-examination debate tournament.

The team, accompanied by Dr. Aldrich Paul, head of the OU speech department, is composed of Arlene Grossman, Roni Meyer, Stan Zwerling, Max Voigt, and John Cady.

Dr. Paul said between 15 and 20 schools are expected to participate in the tournament.

The OU debaters are scheduled to return Sunday.

Dr. Paul also said two members of that team will participate in a television debate on KUON-TV, the University of Nebraska television station.

Stan Zwerling and John Cady are to debate a Nebraska Wesleyan University team on the question, "Resolved: that Nebraska should permit the establishment of a union shop."

The OU-Wesleyan debate is the third one in a series of four half-hour programs on KUON and is set for April 17. Other schools participating include NU, Doane College, The Creighton University, Nebraska State Teachers Colleges, and Midland Lutheran College.

Students Work to Pass Out Election Material to City

Some 1,500 Omaha University students attempted to blanket the city Wednesday evening with informational brochures urging the voters to approve a hike in the OU levy from two mills to four mills.

The issue will be decided in a special election April 23.

The 245 district captains, each assisted by four to six students, delivered the blue brochures on a door-to-door basis. Each captain was responsible for covering approximately 30 houses.

One-hundred-thousand copies of a special election edition of the GATEWAY are to be distributed in a similar manner Sunday afternoon, April 21.

Ten telephones were installed this week in the Election Headquarters Room, formally known as the Student Organizations room.

Of the ten telephones installed, three will be connected through the OU switch board and seven will be regular direct lines. For the convenience of the students who have volunteered, four of the telephones will have headsets on them.

Students will begin calling 4,000 alums and 6,000 night students Monday morning. Calling will continue until April 22, the day before the election. The Student Center will remain open during spring vacation because of the phoning.

More volunteers are requested to sign up for the calling campaign in the Alumni Office. Students registering will receive full instruction concerning the procedures.

The purpose of the campaign is for students to make a personal appeal to get support for OU during the special mill levy election April 23.

Speech Contest Set For Next Wednesday

Wednesday, April 10, has been set for the finals in the University of Omaha intermural Oral Interpretation contest.

The finals will be held in room 312, SC at noon. Preliminaries among the 24 contestants were held yesterday and continue today.

AMONG MY KINFOLK

My favorite cousin, Mandolin Glebe, a sweet, unspoiled country boy, has just started college. Today I got a letter from him which I will reprint here because I know Mandolin's problems are so much like your own. Mandolin writes:

Dear Mandolin (he thinks my name is Mandolin too), I see by the college paper that you are writing a column for Marlboro Cigarettes. I think Marlboros are jim-dandy cigarettes with real nice tobacco and a ginger-peachy filter, and I want to tell you why I don't smoke them.

It all started the very first day I arrived at college. I was walking across the campus, swinging my paper valise and singing traditional airs like Blue Tail Fly and Death and Transfiguration, when all of a sudden I ran into this here collegiate-looking fellow with a monogram on his breast pocket. He asked me was I a freshman. I said yes. He asked me did I want to be a BMOC and the envy of all the in crowd. I said yes. He said the only way to make these keen things happen was to join a fraternity. Fortunately he happened to have a pledge card with him, so he pricked my thumb and I signed. He didn't tell me the name of the fraternity or where it is located, but I suppose I'll find out when I go active.

She carried me to a chic French restaurant.

Meanwhile this fellow comes around every week to collect the dues, which are $100, plus a $10 fine for missing the weekly meeting, plus a $5 assessment to buy a headstone for Spot, the late, beloved beagle who was the fraternity mascot.

I have never regretted joining the fraternity, because it is my dearest wish to be a BMOC and the envy of all the in crowd, but you can see that it is not cheap. It wouldn't be so bad if I slept at the frat house, but you must agree that I can't sleep at the house if I don't know where the house is.

I have rented a room which is not only grotesquely expensive, but it is not at all the kind of room I was looking for. I wanted someplace reasonably priced, clean, comfortable, and within easy walking distance of classes, the shopping district, and San Francisco and New York. What I found was a bedroom in the home of a local costermonger which is dingy, expensive, and uncomfortable—and I don't even get to use the bed till 7 a.m. when my landlord goes out to mong his costers.

Well anyhow, I got settled and the next thing I did, naturally, was to look for a girl. And I found her. Harriet, her name is, a beautiful creature standing just under seven feet high and weighing 385 pounds. I first spied her leaning against the statue of the Founder, dozing lightly. I talked to her for several hours without effect. Only when I mentioned dinner did she stir. Her milky little eyes opened, she raised a brawny arm, seized my nape, and carried me to a chic French restaurant called Le Chipjoint where she consumed, according to my calculations, her own weight in chateaubriand.

After dinner she lapsed into a torpor from which I could not rouse her, no matter how I tried. I banged my glass with a fork, I pinched her great pendulous jowls, I rubbed the legs of my corduroy pants together. But nothing worked, and finally I slung her over my shoulder and carried her to the girls dorm, slipping several discs in the process.

Fortunately, medical care for students is provided free at the college infirmary. All I had to pay for were a few extras, like X-rays, anaesthesia, forceps, hemostats, scalpels, catgut, linen, towels, amortization, and nurses. They would not, however, let me keep the nurses.

So, dear cousin, it is lack of funds, not lack of enthusiasm, that is keeping me from Marlboro Cigarettes—dear, good Marlboros with their fine blend of choice tobaccos and their pure white Selectrate filter and their soft pack and their flip top box.

Well, I must close now. My pencil is wore out and I can't afford another. Keep 'em flying.

Readers Theater Last Program Scheduled; Open to Public Apr. 18

This year's final program for Reader's Theatre has been scheduled for April 18 in room 312 of the Student Center.

The program is open to the public and begins at 7:30 p.m. Coffee and Tea will be served starting at 7 o'clock.

Included in the program is the prologue to the "Canterbury Tales" to be read by Marilyn Hunter; "Several Ages of Man", a selection of speeches from Shakespeare to be presented by Dudley Sauve; and "The Several Thomas Jeffersons", an original play for voices written by Warren Gore of the University of Omaha speech department.

In the cast for Mr. Gore's play are Susan Johnson, John Anderson, Mary Jean Horn, Fred Crouter, Sandy Weicherding, Richard Russell, Jerry L. Johnson, and Joe Schik.

Net Prospects Up As Transfers Star

Prospects can only be called bright for this year's Omaha University tennis team.

The additions of transfers Gene Licka and Ron Steppe plus the return to action of Paul Melingagio to action give the Indians netmen more depth and experience than last year's 2-8 squad.

Lettermen back are Al Konecky, a diminutive 5-7 soph from Omaha Central who played as number two man last year and Joe Benson, better known for his football feats, a soph from Paducah, Kentucky, now making his home in Omaha.

Omahans Bill Miller, Rick Collins or Doug Huher could move into the spotlight should any of the vets falter.

Biggest losses include lettermen Bob Ogden, Ed Farmer, Duncan Fraser and Mike McColey. Also missing is squadman Cary Sievers who also saw considerable action.

Coach Ernie Gorr says, "We have more experienced players, but we are still looking for more depth. We have only two men who lettered last year returning. We should get valuable help from our transfers. We definitely will be better than last year, but we won't know how good until we get well into our season schedule."

Gorr is starting his 15th year at OU and his second at the tennis helm. He was cross country coach for several years before the sport folded at OU.

OU Indians Open Home Slate With Simpson Invasion

Omaha University's defending CIC champions open the home season tomorrow at one on the OU diamond. The opponent is Simpson College of Indianola, Iowa.

The Redmen have a slight jump on OU, having opened their season last week with a 9-6 loss to Drake at Des Moines.

Coach Virgil Yelkin has nominated rookies Ken McEwen and Larry Krehbel to pitch the doubleheader for Omaha. There will be a pair of seven inning games.

The rest of the starting lineup for OU goes as follows: Shortstop, Joe Neuberger; Third Base, Eddie Bryant; Second Base, Bill Wachtler; First Base, Kenny Allen; Catcher, Don Gruidel; Rightfield, Wayne Backes; Centerfield, Gary Gilmore and Ken Smith in Leftfield.

McEwen is a sophomore who was held out of action last year while Krehbel is a former Benson star who was not with the Indians last season.

The Indian schedule gets into high gear next week with games on Wednesday, a doubleheader with Peru State on the OU field and another pair Thursday with Northwest Missouri State also at home.

The Indians will be on the road following the Northwest Missouri games until May 4 when they return to Omaha to face CIC opponent Pittsburg State.

Sayers Visits Texas; Offutt Here Today

Omaha University opens its 1963 outdoor track season this afternoon at 3:30 as the Indians host Offutt AFB on the Stadium oval.

The Indians will be minus their number one man, Rocket Roger Sayers. Sayers and Coach Lloyd Cardwell are in Austin, Texas for the running of the annual Texas Relays.

Sayers will compete in the open 100 yard dash against some of the West's top sprinters including Ray Knaub of Nebraska who beat him last year, and Bill Kemp of Baylor.

Roger's chief threat, however, may come from an Arizona State sophomore by the name of Henry Carr. Carr within the last month has twice broken the world's record in the 220 yard dash, running times of 20.3 and a week later 20.4 against Utah in a dual meet.

The Texas carnival is the first of the national tests for Sayers as he begins defense of his newly won title of America's top 100 yard man.

The Offutt dual will mark the debuts of a couple of promising Indians. Basketballer Jim Meyers will compete in the 880 and rookie Larry Porter from Council Bluffs, will try to give the distance-weak Omahans some points in the mile.

Absence of Sayers in the sprints will force the Indians to use Mel Wade and Terry Williams as the top two men in the short stuff. Williams has already equaled Sayers' marks in the 60 and 440 this season. He is only a freshman.

On the darker side of the picture, the Indians will be minus the services of two of their outstanding performers for the outdoor opener with the AFB.

Lloyd Cardwell, Jr. will be shelved for at least two weeks with recovery from emergency appendectomy. Cardwell is OU's leadoff man on the mile relay team and also a threat in the 440.

Also on the sick list is vaulter Gerry Richardson. The Fredonia, Kansas, native is recovering from a severe ankle sprain suffered during the CIC indoor at Omaha last month.

Richardson, a senior, has been having his best campaign since enrolling at OU and took second in the CIC meet with 12-6.

Track Schedule

April 5—Offutt AFB at Omaha.
April 11—Kearney Relays.
April 13—Emporia Relays.
